July 30 2026Dear Editorial Team,

In addition to our original coverletter, please see our answers below in connection with the request for additional edits to our manuscript files.

ARTICLE FILE:

1) There are several citations of '???' within the manuscript text. Please amend as necessary

Thank you for pointing this out. These are LaTeX compilation artifacts, likely associated with the online compilation. We address this in the new upload of the manuscript files.

2) Please include the reference list within the references section

The section heading "References" is now included before reference list.

3) Please provide the tables section following the competing interests statement

The section heading "Tables" is now included after the "Competing interests" section.

4) Please provide the end section with the heading 'Figure Legends'

The section heading "Figure Legends" is now included after tables section.

5) Please provide all main manuscript tables within the tables section

All main manuscript tables are now given within the "Tables" section and before the "Figure Legends" section.

6) Tables must be free from bold/italic formatting unless this has been clearly defined in the footnote. Text should be split into separate cells and aligned using the appropriate columns and rows (e.g. to put data on a second line). Please format your tables accordingly.

As far as we can tell, this is already addressed. We have used standard mathematical symbol formatting. All text is split into separate cells and aligned. All symbols are defined in the table itself (Table 1) or in the table caption (Table 2) as relevant. Any color formatting is clearly defined in the table caption (Table 2). If there are further edits to be made, please specify.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

7) Please amend the references heading to read 'Supplementary References'

The references heading in the Supplementary Information now reads "Supplementary References".

SUPPLEMENTARY MATERIALS:

8) Please upload the source data files you have cited in the manuscript text

All source data has been uploaded to the Zenodo archive. The inventory has been updated to reflect this, as per editorial discussion via email.

Yours sincerely,
(on behalf of the authors)
